THE BALD HEAD'S FRIEND.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY!
CARBOLINE!
A Deodorized extract of Petroleum,
The Only Article that Will Restore Hair on Bald Heads.
What the World has been Wanting for Centuries.

The greatest discovery of our day, so far as a large portion of humanity is concerned, is CARBOLINE, an article prepared from petroleum, and which effects a complete and radical cure in case of baldness, or where the hair, owing to diseases of the scalp, has become thin and tends to fall out. It is also a speedy restorative, and while its use secures a luxuriant growth of hair, it also brings back the natural color, and gives the most complete satisfaction in the using. The falling out of the hair, the accumulations of dandruff, and the premature change in color are all evidences of a diseased condition of the scalp and the glands which nourish the hair. To arrest these causes the article used must possess medical as well as chemical virtues, and the change must begin under the scalp to be of permanent and lasting benefit. Such an article is CARBOLINE, and, like many other wonderful discoveries, it is found to consist of elements almost in their natural state. Petroleum oil is the article which is made to work such extraordinary results; but it is after it has been chemically treated and completely deodorized that it is in proper condition for the toilet. It was in far-off Russia that the effect of petroleum upon the hair was first observed, a Government officer having noticed that a partially bald-headed servant of his, when trimming the lamps, had a habit of wiping his oil-besmeared hands in his scanty locks, and the result was in a few months a much finer head of black, glossy hair than he ever had before. The oil was tried on horses and cattle that had lost their hair from the cattle plague, and the results were as rapid as they were marvelous. The manes and even the tails of horses, which had fallen out, were completely restored in a few weeks. These experiments were heralded to the world, but the knowledge was practically useless to the prematurely bald and gray, as no one in civilized society could tolerate the use of refined petroleum as a dressing for the hair. But the skill of one of our chemists has overcome the difficulty, and by a process known only to himself, he has, after very elaborate and costly experiments, succeeded in deodorizing refined petroleum, which renders it susceptible of being handled as daintily as the famous eau de cologne. The experiments with the deodorized liquid on the human hair were attended with the most astonishing results. A few applications, where the hair was thin and falling, gave remarkable tone and vigor to the scalp and hair. Every particle of dandruff disappears on the first or second dressing, and the liquid so searching in its nature, seems to penetrate to the roots at once, and set up a radical change from the start. It is well known that the most beautiful colors are made from petroleum, and, by some mysterious operation of nature, the use of this article gradually imparts a beautiful light-brown color to the hair which by continued use, deepens to a black. The color remains permanent for an indefinite length of time, and the change is so gradual that the most intimate friends can scarcely detect its progress. In a word, it is the most wonderful discovery of the age, and well calculated to make the prematurely bald and gray rejoice.

We advise our readers to give it a trial, feeling satisfied that one application will convince them of its wonderful effects.—Pittsburgh Commercial of Oct. 22, 1877.

The article is telling its own story in the hands of thousands who are using it with the most gratifying and encouraging results:

W. H. BELL & Co., Fifth Avenue Pharmacy, says, "We have sold preparations for the hair for upward of twenty years, but have never had one to sell as well or give such universal satisfaction. We therefore recommend it with confidence to our friends and the general public."

Mr. GUSTAVUS F. HALL, of the Oates Opera Troupe, writes: "After six weeks' use I am convinced, as are also my comrades, that your 'Carboline' has and is producing a wonderful growth of hair where I had none for years."

C. H. SMITH, of the Jennie Hight Combination, writes: "After using your 'Carboline' three weeks I am convinced that bald heads can be 're-haired.' It's simply wonderful in my case."

B. F. ARTHUR, chemist, Holyoke, Mass., writes: "Your 'Carboline' has restored my hair after everything else had failed."

JOSEPH R. POND, attorney-at-law, No. Attleboro, Mass., writes: For more than 20 years a portion of my head has been as smooth and free from hair as a billiard ball, but some eight weeks ago I was induced to try your Carboline, and the effect has been simply wonderful. Where no hair has been seen for years there now appears a thick growth, and I am convinced that by continuing its use I shall have as good a head of hair as I ever had. It is growing now nearly as rapidly as hair does after it is cut.

CARBOLINE
Is now presented to the public without fear of contradiction as the best Restorative and Beautifier of the Hair the world has ever produced.
Price, ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

THE DREAM OF LIFE.

BY GEORGE D. PRENTICE.

'Twas but a bubble—yet it was bright,
And gaily danced along the stream
Of life's wild torrents in the light
Of sunbeams sparkling like a dream
Of heaven's own bliss for loveliness—
For fleetness like a passing thought.

And ever of such dreams of thee
The tissue of my life is wrought,
For I have dreamed of pleasures when
The sun of your existence smiled
Upon my wayward paths and then
Her promised sweetness my head beguiled.
But when I came those sweets to sip,
They turned to gall upon my lip.

And I have dreamed of friendship, too,
For friendship thought was made
To be man's solace in the shade
And glad him in the light, and so
I fondly thought to find a friend
Whose mind with mine would sweetly blend
And as two placid streams unite,
And roll their waters in one bright
And tranquil current to the sea,
So might our happy spirits be
Borne onward to eternity.
But he betrayed me, and with pain
I woke to sleep and dream again.

And then I dreamed of love, and all
The clustered visions of the past
Seemed airy nothings to the last
Bright dream. It threw a magical
Enchantment o'er existence—cast
A glory on my path so bright
I seemed to breathe and feel its light.
But now that blissful dream is o'er,
And I have waked to dream no more.

Beyond the farthest glimmering star
That twinkles in the arch above,
There is a world of truth and love
Which earth's vile passions never mar,
Oh, could I snatch the eagle's plumes,
And soar to that bright world away,
Which God's own holy light illumes
With glories of eternal day;
How gladly every lingering tie
That binds me down to earth I'd sever,
And leave for that blessed home on high,
This hollow-hearted world forever.

Select Story.

MAUD'S COUSIN.

Mrs. De Vere Davenport finished reading the letter that a servant had just brought in. Then she folded it slowly, and returned it to the yellow envelope, that was addressed to her in a coarse, sprawling hand. Then she looked at the gentleman sitting at a window reading the morning 'Herald.'

'Maud's summering is settled most conclusively by the news in this letter, Mr. Davenport. Sister Cynthia writes that her son Willard, Maud's cousin, will spend the summer between Newport and Saratoga, and, as a natural consequence, he would join our party. So that poor little Maud must not go with Leo and me.'

Mr. Davenport looked sharply up from his paper.

'What's the reason? I don't suppose Maud's cousin can hurt her, and it seems a shame to deprive her of her season.

Mrs. Davenport's thin, handsome lips relaxed into a cold smile.

'I dare say—men never think of such things; but, my dear, it would be sheerest idiocy on our part to expose Maud to the society of her cousin. He may be handsome—all the Maurices are—and he certainly is poor. Suppose—just suppose—Maud took it into her head to—to fancy him?'

'Well, suppose she did?'

Mrs. Davenport gave a little, impatient exclamation, that her liege knew, from long experience, meant that she fully intended to carry out her own arrangements, in spite of his view and performances.

'Well, he won't—that is one consolation. Maud shall not meet William Maurice, at least this summer, while she is so young and romantic, and impressionable. She will have to give up Newport and Saratoga and spend the time we are away with her grandmother, up at the farm in Jefferson county.'

So all because Willard Maurice's dear old mother had written to her elegant, wealthy sister, who lived on Fifth Avenue, New York, that her son Willard would join his aunt and cousin at the fashionable resorts, poor little Maude Davenport was forced to give up her anticipated round of pleasure and gaiety.

'I think it is too bad, mamma; just too bad for anything,' she said, her pretty eyes, blue as forget-me-nots, filling with rebellious tears.

'You must make the best of it,' Mrs Davenport said chillingly. 'It's quite a shame but unavoidable. And really you will find that, up in Jefferson county, there are most charming places, the Thousand Islands, the fishing, the boating, the pic-nics, the views, the air. You will not have such an unenviable time.'

'But I want to go with you and Leo, Mamma, I just hate Willard Maurice for spoiling my summer so!'

But, despite Maude's vexation and disappointment, and pretty little rebellion, when her mother wrote to the farm, saying that, if agreeable, she would send her youngest girl out for the summer, when the time of departure came, two days after Mrs. Davenport and Leo left for their outing, Maud was in good spirits and went off quite reconciled.

'I shall like it up on the St. Lawrence River, after all,' she assured herself.

And then, when her father had kissed her good-bye, and left her safe and satisfied in Grandma Cleveland's charge, Maude was quite positive that she would enjoy it all vastly.

And so she did, for a week or two, and then she began to get lonely, and dear old Grandma racked her brains for amusements and diversions, and at length was seized with a happy thought, that resulted in an announcement a week later, that was most acceptable to Maud.

'I've just had a letter from one of the girls, and she's going to send one of the children out for a spell. It'll be quite company for you, Maudie.'

'Oh, dear, yes! I hope auntie—which auntie is it Grandma? Aunt Cynthia, or aunt Samantha? Anyhow I hope she'll send somebody that knows how to have a good out-of-door time. And I am so glad its one of the younger ones. I believe a grown up girl or a young man would be a nuisance instead a relief.'

Grandma peered over the silver-rimmed glasses.

'I wrote particular to have some one of the children sent. I knew you'd rather have it so. You must be all ready by to-morrow, Maud.'

Maud laughed.

'I don't know how to get ready, grandma. I don't know whether to get out my dominoes and jackstraws for a boy or my fancy work and my autograph album for a girl.'

Oh, well! it won't make much difference either way. Grandpa'll hitch Nellie up to the carriage, and you might drive down to the landing and bring up whoever comes—girl or boy.'

The idea was delightfully exciting to Maud, and she entered into it with all her girlish enthusiasm; and when she drove over to the steamboat landing, at Alexandria Bay, the next day, she was gaily important.

'There's no telling who or what I'll bring back,' she thought. And how ridiculous it seems to think I cannot tell who to look for! I suppose I must be governed by appearances and the general strange awkwardness my cousin from the country—be he boy or be she girl, will manifest.'

So, when the boat landed her passengers, there were not so many but that Maud, standing a little aside, could scrutinize every possible cousin among them, there was no boy or girl of any kind, awkward or polished, among them. A little feeling of disappointment went over her as she turned away.

'I think it very singular that nobody came. I wonder if—,

She never finished the thought, for she suddenly discovered a pair of the handsomest gray eyes she had ever seen looking cautiously and admiringly at her and they belonged to a young gentleman who was dressed in the most nobby of traveling suits, with the tinest diamond studs in his linen, and an immaculate, pale gray tie.

'I beg your pardon, but I would like to inquire if you know where the Cleveland Farm is?'

What a charming voice it was, and how gracefully he lifted his hat, and how—oh! how handsome those half smiling gray eyes!

Maud looked demurely up in them.

'Cleveland Farm is just about two miles in that direction, where the clump of trees are.'

The handsome gray eyes followed the direction indicated, and then came back to the sweet, girlish face.

'I expected somebody would meet me, but I dare say the detention was unavoidable.'

All at once it flashed over Maud, this was 'one of the children' invited to come over to the farm. It seemed absurd to think of making such a mistake; but if Grandma Cleveland always called her married daughters 'the girls,' why should not the seifsame 'girls' speak of their family as the 'children.'

Then a roguish little snap of mischief flashed up in Maud's eyes.

'Who did you expect to be here?'

He laughed.

'I didn't know exactly whether my grandfather would come, or send my little cousin to direct me—a stranger to me, although she is my cousin. Perhaps you may know her—her name is Davenport.'

Maud frowned thoughtfully. This handsome young man was her cousin, beyond a shadow of a doubt.

'Davenport? Davenport? The name sounds familiar. Oh, yes; that's the little girl up at the Cleveland Farm. Yes I know her quite well.'

'I suppose she is a very nice little girl Grandmother has sent for one of us to come amuse her. I'll try anyhow.'

'I dare say you'll succeed.'

He laughed, and lifted his hat again.

'I am afraid I have bothered you very much, but I am sure I am greatly obliged to you. Good-morning.'

And, as he went away, on foot, he decided that he would search out the little beauty before long.

While Maud, inspired by her wicked little brain, made Nellie fairly fly home, and—was in the parlor, demure and proper, when the young man was ushered in by grandma, so proud and surprised.

'I never thought your mother'd send you,' she said, delightedly.

'Well, you see I was so awfully disappointed in my calculations for the summer, grandma, that they concluded a trip up here would heal my wounded heart,' and he laughed very cheerily for a fellow with a sorrow.

'Do tell!' grandma said.

'There's nothing to tell, except all my arrangements were made to visit Newport and Saratoga with Aunt Davenport and the girls; but Herrick, at the office had to change his plans, and could not spare me at the time.'

A look of sudden amazement finished his sentence, for he saw Maud sitting by the window, fair and sweet, dimpling and flushing with rougish satisfaction, as she stepped demurely up to him.

'I am Maud Davenport,' she said laughing.

'And I am Williard Maurice! But, why didn't you tell me so down at the landing?'

'Why didn't you ask me?' she retorted saucily.

'Because I was so heart-broken at the deep disappointment of not spending the summer at Newport with you,' he answered, quickly, with a look in his eyes that brought the warm blood charmingly to her cheeks.

And her mother had sent her away up here to avoid this splendid fellow, with the gray eyes and curling, golden-brown hair! Well—'

'You can't help what fate has ordained Mr. Davenport said, consolingly, when the news of the engagement came to them.

'Don't talk such nonsence!' she answered, hysterically. 'If you were a resolute, positive man, you would put your foot down against it—'

A merry, sarcastic twinkle came into his eyes.

'My dear, if I had put my foot down against many things, I am convinced we would all be better off. But in the present instance, I'll be resolute for once—and—let Maud marry the man she loves.'

And Maud's summering was most blessed after all.

Ely's Cream Balm has cured me of Catarrh of several years standing. I have recovered my sense of taste and smell by its use, and can truthfully say the Balm has no equal as a cure for this terrible disease. Frank C Ogden, Elizabeth, N. J., Aug 14, 1879. See advertisement.

During the past five years I have suffered from Catarrh and used without relief remedies prescribed by various physicians. I was advised to try Ely's Cream Balm, am using it with beneficial results, and feel confident that I shall be completely cured of a disease that has seriously effected not only my nostrils but also my hearing. Under Fire.

A SOLDIER'S SENSATION WHEN ENGAGED IN BATTLE,

Whenever you can find a soldier who, under fire, aims low and shoots to make every bullet wound or kill, you will find fifty who are nervously throwing away ammunition, seeming to reason that the reports of their muskets would check or drive the enemy. And yet this nervousness need not be wondered at, for they are playing a game of life and death.

At Malvern Hill, seventeen soldiers belonging to an Ohio regiment took cover in a dry ditch, which answered admirably for a rifle pit. A Georgia regiment charged this little band three times, and were three times driven back. The fire was low and rapid, and the loss in front of their guns was more than one hundred in ten minutes. Regiments have been engaged for an hour without losing over half that number. The fire of these seventeen was so continuous that McClellan ordered forward a brigade to their support, believing that the entire regiment had been cut off.

At Mine Run the writer was just in the rear of a New York regiment which was suddenly attacked. A single company of confederates, cut off from the regiment and dodging about to rejoin it suddenly debouched into a field, and found itself face to face with a union regiment. Fighting commenced at once. A regiment fought a company, both lying down for cover. I lay so near a third sergeant that I could touch his heels, and I watched his fire. Every time he pulled the trigger he elevated the muzzle of his gun at an angle of forty-five degrees, instead of depressing it for the enemy lying down. I saw him repeat this operation fourteen different times. The man next to him fired as many bullets plump into a stump in his front, and the man on the other side shot into the ground about ten feet away. Others must have been wasting bullets about the same way; but that little company was shooting to kill. In that ten minutes of fighting the New Yorkers suffered a loss of thirty six killed and wounded, and then a bayonet charge doubled them backed and opened a gap for the little band's escape. I walked over the ground and found one dead and one wounded confederate. Not a gun, blanket, knapsack or canteen had been left behind.

Any soldier will no doubt fight better under cover than he will in the open field, but cover does not always insure good fighting. At Pittsburg Landing five thousand Union soldiers skulked under the river bank, safe from the enemy's fire, and many of them threw their guns into the river rather than fire a shot. Again, at Yellow Tavern, five of Custer's men, dismounted and lying behind a fence, held five companies of cavalry at bay for twelve minutes, and killed twenty-five men; and this without getting a scratch in return.

At Mine Run a Union regiment went into the fight with sixty pounds of ammunition per man, making a total of perhaps four thousand bullets. This regiment was placed to act as a check to any advance of the enemy in a certain direction. They did not see thirty confederates during the whole day, and yet it was twice more supplied with ammunition. It fired away at least twelve thousand bullets, and yet only killed two rebel skirmishers.

One cool man will do more execution with his musket than thirty men firing at random. One must have a will strong enough to crowd down all emotions, and to oblige his hands to cease trembling at the word. Out of every regiment not more than one hundred men were fighters. These shot to kill. The others shot at random, and killed only by accident. Thirty cartridges would last a good fighter for an all day's fight. The ordinary soldier would fire out his sixty in an hour and a half, and like enough have his eyes shut half the time when he pulled the trigger. A member of the Second Michigan infantry hit the case pretty well at Blackburn Ford. When the skirmishing began he counted his cartridges, and said:

'Just sixty of 'em, and I'll fire three a minute, and have these fellers licked in just twenty minutes to a tick!'

A Novel Banquet.

A novel banquet took place in New York last week where two hundred persons were present as guests. From the serving of the oysters to the drinking of the coffee, not a word was spoken. There were some speeches, but there was no conversation. It was a banquet of the deaf mutes in honor of their patron, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, who had just returned from a five months trip to Milan, whither he went to attend a conference of the world's instructors of deaf mutes. They were not the solemn and sombre people we are apt to regard them, but very happy and merry indeed, who can talk with each other as well as any body else can talk, and enjoy themselves thoroughly. Bishop Potter was present early in the evening, but after saying a few words of good cheer excused himself and withdrew. An excellent dinner engaged the attention of the mutes for about two hours, and then an address of welcome to Dr. Gallaudet was read and translated into the sign language, and Dr. Gallaudet responded in the same silent tongue.

There were twelve toasts, as follows each drunk in silence: "The state of New York: May truth and law prevail;" "The New York Institution for the Deaf and Dumb;" "The sign Language;" "the church Mission;" "The Deaf Mute press," "The Instructors of the Deaf;" "The Foreign Deaf Mutes in America;" "Old Hartford, the mother of American Institutions;" St. Ann's Church;" "The National Deaf-Mute College;" "Our Country: May peace and plenty ever rest on the bosom of her soil, our own, our native land;" "The Manhattan Literary Association." The evening was an exceedingly interesting one throughout. The Times reporter was presented with a copy of the Deaf-Mutes' Journal, a well prepared and neatly printed weekly newspaper, edited and published by deaf mutes. It was after midnight when the address of welcome was begun, and at 2 o'clock St. Ann's Church and the Deaf Mute College were just about being toasted.

High and Low Heels.

SOMETHING FOR THE LADIES TO READ.

Some time ago Mr. Morey devised an apparatus for registering the steps, which he called an odograph. It consists of a small cylinder, rotating by means of clock-work in its interior, and of a pen which marks on the cylinder, and is raised at each step by an impulse communicated by a ball of air beneath the sole. Observations have been made on a number of young soldiers. It was ascertained that the step is longer in going up hill than down hill. It is shorter when a burden is carried; longer with low than high heeled boots; longer when the sole is thick and prolonged a little than when it is short and flexible. It thus appears that the heel may with benefit be almost indefinitely lowered, while it is disadvantageous to prolong the sole of the boot beyond a certain limit, or to give it an absolute rigidity. Some influences which lengthen the step lessen its frequency; so in going up the hill the step becomes at the same time longer and less frequent. In walking on level ground, the length of the step and its frequency are always proportioned; the quicker the walk the longer the step. Nature here proves the folly of the high heel in a most practical manner; and the objection to them in men is equally appl

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, January 14, 1881.

The State Editorial Association will meet at Harrisburg on January 18.

It is now generally believed that Blaine will be Garfield's Secretary of State.

Judge Woods of Georgia has been appointed to fill the vacancy on the United States Supreme bench, caused by the resignation of Judge Strong.

There were two double hangings on the 6th. Hayes and Sullivan were executed at Philadelphia and Lemmens and Mrs. Meierhoffer at Newark, New Jersey.

Governor Murray, of Utah, has signed the certificate of Allen G. Campbell, as delegate in congress. George Q Cannon was the Mormon candidate and received the highest number of votes, but his opponent, Campbell, filed a paper protesting against the issuing of a certificate to him on the ground that he is not a citizen of the United States, and as a polygamist, is not capable of becoming a citizen in good faith. Being ineligible, the votes cast for him amount to nothing, and Campbell therefore received the highest vote. The Governor took this view of it and gave Campbell the certificate.

UNITED STATES SENATOR.

By the time this paper reaches you somebody will have been elected United States Senator as successor to William A. Wallace. The election takes place on Thursday evening of this week. Galusha A. Grow started in with the best chances, but he did not suit the Camerons, and their influence has been thrown in favor of Oliver of Allegheny county. Whether they feared that Grow would not be ruled by them, or that the name of Oliver had peculiar attraction for the elder Cameron is not known, but it is certain that they do not want Grow, and this fact alone is sufficient in the eyes of the subservient republicans of this state to defeat him. A comb nation may be made that will beat Oliver, but it is hardly probable. There are not enough republicans in the Legislature, who dare to exercise their own judgment, when Cameron wills otherwise. Why not elect the old man again, and keep the whole thing in the family? That would save all further trouble.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. January 11th, 1881.

Speaker Randall and other Representatives yesterday called on Secretary Sherman for consultation upon the subject of refunding. There was so much diversity of opinion among members of the House—but still so great a desire to dispose of the subject in some form—that the unusual course of calling on the Secretary in this way was agreed upon. The Secretary is fixed in his belief that three and one-half per cent. interest should be authorized, and suggested that discretion be left with the department to put it at that rate if a lesser one appeared impracticable. A week ago I should have said no such discretion would be given the Department. At that time, too, I should have said that Speaker Randall would not head a delegation in visiting Secretary Sherman for information as to the duties of legislators. Now I am sure no one can tell what will be done. It is most likely the House will put through some half finished measure, and leave its completion to the Senate.

Representative Re gon says his inter-state commerce bill will have a majority of fifty in the House—when a vote is reached. He thinks too, that it will pass the Senate. The better opinion is that the bill will fail.

Senator Cox is again on duty, though not fully restored to health. He says his apportionment bill will probably provide for about 300 Representatives—perhaps one or two more, and perhaps one or two less. The uncertainty arises from lack of exact knowledge as to population. Full report on that head will be ready to morrow.

Yesterday the Indian appropriation bill was discussed in the House. It will be disposed of to-day, substantially as reported. Indeed, so far not a material amendment has been made to any appropriation bill as reported by the committee. This speaks well for the committee and shows a determination on the part of Democrats to avoid all pretext for an extra session, for in two of the bills they have refused to debate subjects heretofore held to be matters of principle and of some importance to the party.

General Lowan yesterday introduced in the Senate a bill authorizing the appointment of Ex President Grant as General on the retired list, with the full pay of General. This action is taken because it is feared the House will not act at this session on the similar bill sometime since introduced in that body.

Senator Blaine authorizes a denial of the report that he has said he had been offered and would accept the Secretaryship of State in Presidenti Garfield's administration. He does not deny the offer, or say that he will not accept the office. No one here doubts that the offer has been made, and very few doubt that Blaine will be the next Secretary of State.

HILTON.

Subscription books have been opened for subscription to start a nail factory or car shops in this place. The shares are of the value of $50. The capital stock is to be $30,000 to start with. Application will be made at the February court for a charter, incorporating the enterprise. Judge Shuman makes a very liberal proposition to the citizens of Catawissa to further and accomplish the object. He agrees to give about four and a half acres of ground at the same price per acre that he paid for the entire farm and take the amount in stock, besides he will guarantee to dispose of $10,000 worth of stock if the citizens will raise $20,000. Here is a golden opportunity for the citizens of Catawissa, and one of a life time, and should be 'snapped up' without a moments hesitation. All that is needed to have the works in operation at the end of six or eight months is a little enterprise, and we believe our people will not be slow to take advantage of the opportunity.—Item.

And yet Bloomsburg, with far greater facilities and larger capital, remains passive and allows its golden opportunities to slip away. A nail or axe factory in this town would pay handsomely.

Finelli, the famous cater of Philadelphia, was relieved recently of a $350 gold watch by an adroit thief in a crowded street car.

THE PUBLIC AND NORMAL SCHOOLS.

In his recent message Governor Hoyt speaks of the schools as follows:

The State is carrying on its system of public instruction in three directions; Public schools, normal schools, and the soldiers' orphans' schools. The report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. J. P. Wickersham, will receive your careful attention His views and recommendations are entitled to your consideration, by virtue of his long, intelligent and effective service, and his very extensive experience with public schools in our own State in other States, and in the Old World. It is most gratifying that he reports the organization of the common schools more complete than ever before "in all departments characterized by a vigorous life and a progressive spirit." The whole number of graded schools is 7,037—the number of schools not graded, 11,618. The total number of pupils on the rolls is 937,310, with an average attendance of 77 per cent. The expenditures of all kinds for the year ending June, 1880, not including orphan or normal schools, were $7,482,577.75 The value of the school property of the State is $25,467,097. The total indebtedness of all the school districts in the State, including those in cities and boroughs, is only $2,648,490,84, while there remain in the various treasuries of the districts, balances amounting to $1,425,213 16. These are satisfactory figures, and indicate the permanent value which this agency of progress holds in the minds of the people.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The condition of the normal schools and of their property will require your notice. There have been twenty-nine hundred students in attendance during the past year. The value of their property is estimated at $1, 365,395.17.

The schools are ten in number. In their establishment, there may be set down as contributed by private subscriptions $400,000 The State has contributed for grounds, buildings and apparatus, up to the year 1878, $645,000. The debts of the schools may be put at $250,700. The appropriations by the State to these schools has, for some years, been $100,000 annually. By a mere arbitrary mode of distribution, and no other seemed feasible, this sum has been parcelled out equally—$10,000 to each. For these sums liens have been taken in favor of the State. They have been compelled to use their appropriations in paying old floating debts, or in keeping down interest on the mortgages and other liens against them. Resources which should be expended in the active conduct of the schools are thus absorbed in the reduction of debts which cripple them; and this reduction is not being accomplished in the best and most economical manner for the State or the schools. Besides, the annual appropriation has a tendency to induce the belief that it is to be a permanent relief, and weakens the administration and efficiency of the system.

The correct policy for the State now to adopt will be to pay off the entire endebtedness of the normal schools; and so far as a surrender of the rights of shareholders and contributions can be secured, place the ownership of the several properties and all liens, in the State. After such provision in their behalf, the schools ought to be self supporting, and doubtless will become so. No further aid from the State should thereafter be expected by them.

Congressional Apportionments.

As a matter of timely interest at this date, when the question of Congressional apportionment is the leading subject in political circles, we give the number of Representatives in Congress and the ratio of apportionments under each census, from the foundation of the government:

	Whole No. Reps.	Ratio
1789	65	30,000
1798	105	33,000
1803	141	33 000
1813	181	35 000
1823	213	40,000
1833	240	47,700
1843	223	70,680
1853	237	93 423
1863	243	126,381
1873	293	131,425

The question of party should not for a moment be allowed to influence Congressmen, as this is an exclusively mathematical question. Should the number remain the same the ratio for a Congressman would be 168,151, and Pennsylvania would lose two members. The South would make a net gain of one, and the North lose one. The Pittsburg Post, in figuring upon the subject goes on and states that if 300 Representatives are allowed the ratio will be 164,233 The Southern States would gain eight and lose two—a net gain of six, while Northern States would gain ten and lose nine—a net gain of one. Pennsylvania would lose one member.

If 325 Representatives is allowed the ratio will be 151,600, and the only States that would lose members are Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. The Southern States would gain 15 members and the Northern 17. Pennsylvania would gain one member.

After Congress fixes the number, the State Legislatures are required to redistrict their States so that the election for Congressmen in 1882 will take place under it.—Williamsport Banner.

Hoyt on the Prevention of Crime.

The Ring Governor of Pennsylvania sent his message last week to the Legislature. He reminds his fellow citizens that "Pennsylvania has, in many respects, realized the best human anticipations of an ideal republic." At the same time he finds it necessary to devote nearly half his message to a discussion of the best methods of diminishing the enormous amount of crime within the State's borders.

Gov. Hoyt's theory seems to be that great latitude should be allowed to authorities in preferring reformatory to punative measures. "It is not sentimentalism," says the Ring Governor, "but sound policy and conformity to the ordinary motives of human conduct, which keeps a prisoner out of the fixed classification with hardened criminals if possible; which gives him hope, a chance for the recovery of social influence, and the means of cultivating self-respect."

It was on this principal, we suppose, that Mr. Hoyt made haste to pardon the convicted criminal William H. Kemble before he got into the penitentiary. He was anxious to keep Kemble out of fixed classification with jailbirds, and to give him a chance for the recovery of social influence

That may be all very well; but the interests of the community are larger than the interests of the individual prisoner, and the community's interests often require that the adroit rascal shall be locked up, even at the sacrifice of his social influence and self-respect.

No, Mr. Hoyt; you are altogether too tender hearted to be Chief Magistrate of an ideal republic. The best human anticipations will never be realized in Pennsylvania so long as its governors are too solicitous for the social influence and self-respect of its convicted criminals.—N. Y. Sun.

Suffrage in the South.

THE EVILS OF THE BLACK MAN DECIDING DISPUTES OF WHITE AMBITION.

To A. K. McClure of the Philadelphia Times, belongs the credit of being the first sojourner at the South to discover that the political solidity of the white people of this section is not only not dangerous to the country at large, but has heretofore proven an effectual barrier to the real evils that would have resulted from the bestowal of the right of suffrage upon an ignorant class of voters. To the people of the South the permanent danger of the situation is one of the commonplaces of our politics—so obvious to everybody that it seemed hardly worth discussing. The tone of astonishment with which Colonel McClure deals with this desperate side of Southern politics, however, leads us to suspect that our newspapers have not dwelt with sufficient emphasis upon the real dangers contingent upon the breaking up of the political solidity of the South—an event that is so devoutly prayed for by the unthinking partisans who have control of a majority of the Republican papers of the North.

These local divisions mean nothing more or less than political demoralization of the most deplorable kind. We do not draw the color line when speaking of the ignorant voters of the South. Unchecked ignorance, whether it be black or white, is demoralizing, degrading and dangerous wherever its influence is felt. Armed with the ballot, this ignorance becomes tenfold more dangerous than before, for it then becomes an instrument most thoroughly fitted to the hands of demagogues who desire, through the medium of political preferment, to prey upon society. If Northern editors, wise or superficial, could have the opportunity of witnessing an election in the South from which party lines have been eliminated they would not dare to advise even local division the South. An intuitive fear of the results of such divisions has kept our people practically solid, and this solidity has operated as an effectual barrier to the effects of ignorant suffrage, but it will be an evil day for the South and for the whole country when indiscriminate divisions headed by unscrupulous demagogues shall make ignorance the balance of power in elections. This Colonel McClure very clearly perceives and he warns the country against it. What effect this will have upon the superficials at the North is immaterial, but it is a warning that ought to address itself to the apprehension of every thoughtful Southern man.—Atlanta Constitution.

A NEW PAYING OCCUPATION

—FOR—

LADIES & GENTLEMEN

The Handsome Nickel Plated New Home Lamp being introduced to the public this season, is the most meritorious article ever offered agents to make money with, is safer and more convenient than the student lamp, which has heretofore had the reputation of being the safest lamp made, it has a clamp to attach it to the sewing machine, piano, organ, desk, etc. The fear of the ordinary lamp being accidentally upset or thrown from the table, is entirely relieved by the simple clamp contrivance. It can be adjusted to throw the light just where it is wanted to suit the eyes, and can be converted into a hand-some wall lamp It has the best argand burner, a filling indicator, and convenient match box, and its price is within the reach of every one It has been fully tested and editorially endorsed by the Western Christian Advocate, Am. Christian Review, Herald and Presbyter, Journal and Messenger, and Christian Standard, the leading religious papers of Cincinnati, and is endorsed by the Mayor and Postmaster of Cincinnati, the agent of the American express company and presidents of insurance companies, as being the safest, most convenient and best lamp made.

There are three reasons why agents should seek such an article to canvass for—first for its absolute safety and great convenience, it is needed in every home—second its low price makes its sale immense—third it will be a great credit to handle such an article. One southern agent writes, it sells faster than Gen. Lee's portrait sold right after the war, another writes, it beats the palmy days of the sewing machine, its rapid sale, low price, and liberal terms surprise old agents. Address Home Lamp Co, Cincinnati, O., mentioning our paper and they will give you full particulars and exclusive territory to canvass in. nov.5-13w

Prince Hannibal Brown died near Warrenton, Va., the other day, aged about a hundred years. Hannibal was stolen from the cost of Africa in 1820 and brought in a slave ship to this country. He always held that his father was an African king. When he was a boy he had several slaves as personal attendants. Being set free after his arrival in this country he learned the blacksmith trade and became a skilled workman. He accumulated money enough to buy a plantation and several slaves, and he was the only negro slaveholder in America. During the war he was devoted to the Confederacy, and was imprisoned at the old Capitol in Washington because he refused to shoe the horses of Union troops.

It should be the aim of every owner of Horses, Cows, &c., to make them as handsome and useful as possible. The German Horse and Cow Powder helps to develop all the powers of the animal. It improves its beauty and increases its usefulness. It makes milk, muscle and fat. By using it a horse will do more work and a cow give more milk and be in better condition with less feed. Sold only by weight at 15 cents a pound by C. A. Kleim, Bloomsburg.

1881—37th YEAR

Eclectic Magazine
—OF—
Foreign Literature, Science, and Art.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

THE ECLECTIC MAGAZINE reproduces from foreign periodicals all those articles which are valuable to American readers. Its field of selection embraces all the leading Foreign Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, and the tastes of all classes of readers are consulted in the articles presented. Its plan includes Science, Essays, Reviews, Sketches, Travels, Poetry, Novels, Short Stories, etc., etc.

With the number for January, 1881, the Eclectic Magazine will be enlarged to such an extent as will give about two hundred pages of additional reading matter during the year.

This increase of space will afford the opportunity not merely for an increased quantity but for a much greater variety of reading matter; and the publisher confidentially promises that the opportunity shall be so utilized that the Eclectic will be more valuable more readable, and more satisfactory than ever before. The same policy will be taken as either to exclude articles which are trivial in character, or of merely transient interest; but larger space will be assigned to articles of a popular and entertaining cast, and with ample materials of the best quality at command, the Eclectic will be made the Ideal Family Magazine.

The following list of contributors to the periodicals from which the Eclectic is selected will give some idea of the value of its contents: Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Professor Huxley, Professor Tyndall, Richard A. Proctor, D. A., J. Norman Lockyer, F. R. S., Dr. W. B. Carpenter, E. B. Taylor, Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Owen, Matthew Arnold, E. A. Freeman, D. C. L., James Anthony Froude, Thomas Hughes, Anthony Trollope, William Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Turgenieff, Miss Thackeray, etc., etc.,

The English periodicals are the great storehouse from which are drawn many of the best and most popular books of the time. The Eclectic reprints this material fresh from the author's hands, and at a price far lower than it costs to book form.

TERMS: Single copies, 45 cents; one copy, one year, $5; five copies, $20. Trial subscription for three months, $1. The Eclectic and any $4 magazine to one address, $8. Postage free to all subscribers.

There are many pavements in town that are in a dangerous condition. When it might easily have been done they were not properly cleaned, and the water that remained on them because no openings were made for it to run into the gutter, has frozen, making them very slippery: It is to be hoped that no one but the occupants of such premises will get a fall on these pavements.

It is a great source of annoyance that no change has yet been made in the mail routes through this county If any one should arrange the routes with the view of inconveniencing the largest number of people he could not have done it more successfully. A large number of petitions have been signed but nothing has yet resulted from them. If our postmaster has any influence with the department at Washington every body would be greatly obliged to him if he can effect a change.

There were four sleighing parties went out of town on Friday night, last week, one to each of the following points, Benton, Berwick, Danville and Shabtown

A MAGNIFICENT SLEIGHING PARTY.

On Friday evening of last week, a party of gentlemen and ladies, well known in social circles, enjoyed a splendid sleighride behind four spirited horses, controlled by the masterhand of John Gibbs, and proceeded to Hess' Hotel, Benton, where a grand time was had. Dancing was participated in until the wee small hours, the party having taken their music with them. All spoke in the highest terms of the elegant repast that was served them by the hostess, Mrs. Hess.

We have received the official report of the State Hospital for the insane at Danville, for the two years ending September 30th, 1880. For the year 1878-9 there were 2 males and 4 females committed from this county. For 1879-80 there were 3 males and 3 females. Since the erection of the institution there have been 33 males and 22 females sent there from this county. The report is neatly printed and appears to be very complete. In speaking of Mr. F. C. Eyer, Steward, formerly of this town, the report says he "still continues in his position and fills it with his customary fidelity and success."

A SAD DEATH.

The announcement of the death of Rev. O. D. S. Marclay on Monday morning was so startling that the community could scarcely realize it. Wednesday evening after going home from prayer meeting he was taken with cramp in the stomach—from this he rallied a little—but on Thursday afternoon he attack became more severe, from which came inflammation, and mortification set in, which ended in his death about five o'clock on Monday morning. Mr. Marclay came to Bloomsburg in May, 1878 and took charge of the Lutheran congregation then under the care of Dr. J. McCron. He took great delight in doing all possible for the church under his care. He had made extensive preparations for conducting a series of meetings for the winter. Rev. Earle, D. D., an evangelist of great fame from Massachusetts, had been secured to assist in conducting the meeting and would have been here on Saturday The week of prayer was commenced on the 3rd of January and Mr. Marclay assisted up until Wednesday evening, and had appointed the following Sunday as the day to commemorate the Lord's Supper. When he was taken sick an announcement was made that the communion services would be postponed. He had commenced his sermon for the Sunday, choosing as his text I Corinthians xxth chapter and xxvith verse Thus, with Bible open, the text chosen, and a few notes written, he was in the grasp of death almost at the same time he was to have given his sermon In his death the church has lost a beloved pastor, the community an exemplary citizen and the family a very kind and devoted father and husband. Aside from his church members he had endeared himself to a good many people, whom he always met with a kind and pleasant smile. He was always active in the work for the Master, and whenever possible would encourage some one to renewed energies. He was born in Seward, Schoharie county, N. Y, March 11 1840, and died January 10, 1881, being 40 years, 9 months and 29 days old. The funeral services were held in the Lutheran church—the church being very heavily draped about the altar. The body was taken to Rosemont Cemetery for interment.

The regular annual meeting of Gen. Wellington H. Ent Post, G. A. R., No. 152 was held at Bloomsburg on Tuesday evening of last week. The following officers were unanimously elected for the ensuing year: Post Commander, C. B. Brockway; Senior V. Commander, N. B. Fowler; Officer of the Day, John Dodson; Chaplain, Stephen Collins; Quarter Master, W. H. Swentzel; Officer of the Guard, U. H. Ent; Surgeon, Daniel Bois; Representative to State Encampment, C. P. Sloan; Council of Administration, C. S Fornwald, 18 months; B F Hicks, 12 months and Frank Bois, 6 months

The installation of officers will take place at Furman's Hall Friday evening.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE—Of the many guides and seed and plant catalogues sent out by our seedsmen and nurserymen, and that are doing so much to inform the people and beautify and enrich our country, none are so beautiful, none so instructive as Vick's Floral Guide. Its paper is the choicest, its illustrations handsome, and given by the hundred, while its colored plate is a gem. This work, although costing but 10 cents, is handsome enough for a gift book, or a place on the parlor table. Published by James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

Our lady readers will doubtless be pleased to learn of a simple process by which colored pictures may be applied to silk so perfectly that the ornamentation is mistaken for hand-painting. The pictures of flowers, fruits and other objects are printed in oil colors on specially prepared paper, and may be arranged in designs to suit one's fancy They are transferred by simply moistening the back of the picture with water and pressing it on with a red hot iron. This decoration is so much easier done than hand painting that the ladies are using it for ornamenting the panels, collars, and sashes of dresses.—Banner.

While there is no immediate danger of the spread of small pox in this town, it is well to take every precaution to prevent it from getting any foothold. There are many cases in Philadelphia and other places, and the disease may easily be brought here by strangers. We would therefore advise the following course to be pursued. Let everybody be vaccinated. The town authorities should require this to be done, and appoint some physician to whom the poor can go at the expense of the town, and be vaccinated. Any one who is taken sick should be very careful not to go out of the house until satisfied of the nature of the disease. If it should be small pox it might easily be communicated to others. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

FINAL NOTICE.

We still have a thousand dollars in subscription to the COLUMBIAN standing on our books, which was due October 1st, 1879. Persons still owing for the paper prior to that time are hereby notified that unless they pay very soon costs will be made. We are tired of wasting postage on bills to which no attention is paid, but will try it once more and send a statement to every one indebted to the firm. Unless there is an early response to the claims we will put them in the hands of a justice.

Wm. M. Hughes, the popular liveryman, has been very unfortunate, On Chistmas day, one of the beautiful grey match team, which he recently purchased of F. R. Jackson, of Berwick, was almost ruined for life by a runaway accident. Last Friday, a hostler, who has been in his employ but a short time, took out the other grey horse. The animal being rather high strung, the reckless hostler over drove him, and the next morning the horse was found dead in his stall. This of course caused the discharge of the hostler, who started out, taking with him a valuable overcoat, which, however, was recovered at Stockton. The loss of his best team, and one of the most showy in this end of the county is rather tough on the good natured and popular liveryman, and we trust that the season of his business misfortunes is ended.—Hazleton Sentinel.

Frequently our young men receive invitations from strange quarters and are at a loss to understand why they received them from the parties. In order to inform them how it happens, sometimes; how to account for unexpected invitations to sleighing carnivals, we will relate a little incident that occurred a short time since. A party of charming lady vocalists were over to Heller's church, fascinating the good people in that vicinity with their wonderful voices and extraordinary musical ability, and on their way home it was proposed that they should get up a sleighing party. All were unanimously of the opinion that horses were absolutely necessary to take a sleigh ride, but how to procure them without much expenditure of wealth was what perplexed their fertile brains. Of course, silver was plenty with them, but remembering the old saying "Economy is wealth," they had determined to economize this year, to resume "as it were;" and to hire a horse would be wasteful and extravagant in the extreme All were "at Sea," when a bright and sprightly maiden from whose eyes beamed the light of intelligence, and on whose brow was indelibly stamped—expediency—ventured the suggestion which was to help them out of their dilemma, that they should invite H—— for he had a horse—a happy thought in which all concurred. "Why, it's just the proper caper," &c. Now everything will be delightful and the anticipated magnificent time will be had if H —— don't mar the prospects.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

JANUARY 5, 1881—Council met at 7 o'clock p. m., present the President, G. A. Herring and Messrs. Thomas, Sharpless, Rabb and Holmes. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Bill for rent of room occupied by Friendship Fire Co., on fourth floor of building of J. J. Brower was presented. After consultation council agreed unanimously to pay thirty dollars ($30,00) for use of said room for the present year to expire on the first day of April A. D., 1881. Council also agreed to pay Peter Gross thirty dollars ($30,00) for room occupied by Rescue Fire Co., for the year ending on the first day of April A. D. 1881.

Mr. Holmes moved that a committee be appointed to prepare a health ordinance to be presented to the council for their adoption, and that the President of Council be chairman of said committee, seconded by Mr. Rabb. Passed unanimously, whereupon the President appointed Messrs. Rabb and Holmes on said committee.

Bill of Bloomsburg Water Company, for the use of water from December 1st, 1880, to January 1st, 1881, of ($133,33⅓), payment of which was unanimously refused by council.

ROUND ABOUT ROARINGCREEK.

Jan. 6, 1881.

Dr. Bolick was in town one day last week.

Rev. L. R. Kramer, of the U. B. church of this place, closed a series of meetings at Montana, this county, Sunday evening.

W. A. Berninger shot himself through one of his fingers, with a pistol, while handling it rather too carelessly, a few days ago.

Miss Sallie Miller, formerly one of Numidia's fairest damsels, has returned to her former place of abode, from an extended visit in the far West.

Mrs. Daniel Hauck, who purchased the Darius Yeager property, opposite Yeager's store, is making preparation to build a blacksmith shop on the premises.

We presume the Rev. J. V. Boline enjoyed a happy New Year, as a donation was tendered him by his friends in the vicinity of Mill Grove.

'Johnny' Moyer, the oyster man, 'Jake Rhawn, the beer man, 'Jerry' Frederick the plow man, and 'Fill' Geiger, the tonsorial artist, all sporting boys of Catawissa, spent a portion of the holidays in and around our little rural village.

On December 28th, 1880, by the Rev. L. Lindenstruth, Mr. W. L. Snyder, of this place to Miss Hannah Fahringer, of Numidia May, success and happiness attend friend Will and wife as down life's vale they arm in arm do journey.

Mr. Frederick Pfahler's team, of Catawissa, while at Numidia one day last week, ran down the road toward the widow Fetterman's, and when near there, one of the horses, a valuable animal, about four years old, caught fast with one of her feet and broke her leg about the fetlock. The horse was put in ropes and the limb set by Dr. Mears

Mrs. Henry Fahringer, residing near here was very unfortunate on Chrismas evening. She fell down a flight of stairs, which resulted in the breaking of her arm just below the shoulder, which made it very difficult for the physician to get it to its proper position

The Holidays passed off with their various amusements. The L. and R. Sunday school had a very nice time with their Christmas tree and concert. The M E. school had no tree but distributed confectionery among its children. The ball at the National on the evening of the 26th ult., was well patronized by both sexes, and the hop at the Numidia hotel last Friday evening was also largely attended.

Persons who were about this place spending the holidays with relatives and friends were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herbein and the Misses Fink, of Bloomsburg; Mr. Frank Averill and wife, of Mt. Carmel, our jolly friend Mr. Edward Stern, of Kingston; Mr. Dennis Fahringer, of Scranton; Messrs. W. J. Hughes and Charles Fahringer, of Milton; H. H. Helwig, of Danville; Miss Harriet Yeager, of Bear Gap and Miss Rebecca Yeager of Catawissa. Britton Hughes, accompanied by his brother, Will J., were visiting relatives in Birdsboro and Reading, and Mr. and Mrs. B P. Folk were at Bloomsburg.

A very pleasant social party, by invitation, assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Yeager last Friday, in honor of the 25th anniversary of their wedding day. Among those who were present were Ex-Judge Hughes, and Mrs. Kostenbauder, of Catawissa; Dr. J. H. Vastine and wife and daughter, Nettie H. Vastine, of Numidia; Messrs. O. W. Cherrington and D. H. Case with their ladies, of Mill Grove; Mr. Charles Krug and wife, of Bloomsburg; Mr. William Holloway, of Danville, and Mrs. William Hurst, of Moresburg Mr. and Mrs. Yeager received several fine presents.

FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

The columns of a paper are the publisher's stock in trade, and the parties who ask to use them for their special benefit must expect to pay for the same. Every public spirited citizen of a place should have a pride in seeing his town and surroundings improve; every new house, every new road, every new manufacturing establishment erected, every new business opened enhances the value of property in our midst. Every reflecting mind knows this to be true, and it should not be forgotten that the local newspaper adds much to the general wealth and prosperity of the place, as well as increases the reputation of the town abroad. It benefits all who have business in the place; enhances the value of property, besides being a desirable public convenience, even if not conducted in the interests of the ruling political power. It increases trade, it cautions against imposition, it saves you from loss, it warns you of danger, it points out different advantages, and increases your profits. The local press is the power that moves the people; therefore support it by advertising in it liberally, subscribing for it and paying for it.—Menamin's Printers' Circular.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The following has been prepared by the officers of the Agricultural Society.

Statement of the purchase, amount paid and present indebtedness of the Columbia county Agricultural, Horticultural and Mechanial Society:

The property now occupied for the holding of the Columbia County Fair, annually, was purchased on the 25th day of November, A. D., 1876. The purchase money to be paid for the same was $8,000. The amount paid at the execution or signing of the agreement was 2,000. The balance was to be paid in six annual installments of $1,000 each, with interest from April 1st, 1877. The amount paid October 25, 1877, was $480, instead of $1,000 and interest. The amount paid November 23, 1878 was $632, instead of $1,000 and interest. The amount paid under the management of 1879 was $1,000 according to agreement, less the interest. The amount paid under the same management for 1880 was $2,100, which still leaves a balance due the vendors on May 21, 1881, of $3,040.35. So that the management of the society for the past two years, 1879 and 1880, have paid on the purchase money nearly three times the amount of the two preceding years under the old management.

The Columbia County Fair was originally organized and held its first exhibition in 1854. After the lapse of 22 years they concluded to purchase ground. The society was incorporated in 1868, fourteen years after its organization, and yet in twenty-two years the society was only enabled to clear less than $100 per year, which is shown by the books and by the down money paid at the time of the purchase.

APPLETON'S CYCLOPÆIA.

THE STANDARD AND THE BEST.

BY PROF H L. SMITH, HOBART COLLEGE GENEVA, N. Y.

It is now nearly nineteen years since the publication of the first edition of Appleton's American Cyclopædia, and in the interval, not only professional scholars, but men of culture generally, have watched with eager interest the progress of inquiry in every department of knowledge, and a new work of reference has been felt to be an imperative want. To present a comprehensive and at the same time clear and popular exposition of the progress made in more than a decade and a half, demanded almost a new work rather than the recediting of an old one; something suited to the circumstances of a busy and active people having little time to read elaborate and extended treatises; and requiring therefore a literary rather than a scientific treatment, so as to address itself to the public mind in the most acceptable and useful manner.

This want the new issue of the American Cyclopædia claims to meet, not by a patching up of the old edition, admirable as that was for its day, but mainly as a new book, with brief condensed articles, not less useful to the student than to the general reader, and so pre-eminently the Cyclopædia for the people. It may be quite true that some subjects are in the justly celebrated 'Britannica,' treated more elaborately, nay for the time exhaustively; but the rapid advancement in all departments of knowledge requires that a student, desirous of mastering any one subject, must have recourse to the daily journals, and the most recent and elaborate monographs of the workers and thinkers of the day, rather than the articles of an encyclopædia, which are, of necessity somewhat behind as soon as published; and besides, such elaborate treatises can only be given by the exclusion of many articles which, even of minor importance in themselves, are collectively of far more value. The annual volumes of the American Cyclopædia have in a measure enabled the possessors of the first edition to keep pace partially with advancing knowledge, but after all they could not meet the wants of new subscribers, and the public generally. New ideas, new processes and results in science art, changed political and social relations; wonderful accessions to geographical knowledge made the re-issue of the American Cyclopædia in its present form a necessity, which it meets by a comprehensive, yet popular treatment of the various subjects up to the date of publication, by men of eminence in the several departments of learning in America, England and the continent of Europe. The most recent scientific discoveries, the freshest research, and the bearing of all on civilization and progress are fully and clearly presented; and so, to hard worked men with limited opportunities, like most of those for whom the Cyclopædia is specially intended, it is a great storehouse of information presented in a manner as fascinating as that of the most ingenious work of fiction. The wonderful telephone, the phonograph, American inventions, the improvements in telegraphy, the natural history of the parasites which of late years have been so destructive to vegetation, many peculiar to our own country, in fact the whole range of topics are so discussed as to make the American Cyclopædia the book for the American people; wisely disseminating and interpreting, as it does, the results of the vast impulse imparted to the arts, sciences, and several industries of a busy world; and embracing in its comprehensive grasp, the intellectual and moral forces which have enabled a great people, in a few years, without any calamity, or that ruin of credit which usually attends such a charge, to return to specie from paper money depreciated in two short years to half the standard value. The customs, the laws, the history, the geography, the education, the biography, the science and the arts of such a people, as given in the American Cyclopædia, can no longer be ignored, nor are they at present elsewhere to be found collectively, a fact which should commend this Cyclopædia, not less to the European nations than to the citizens of the United States, for whom it is peculiarly adapted.

George Eliot's Romola.

A timely interest is given, by the death of the author, to the new edition of her masterpiece, "Romola," just issued by the American Book Exchange, New York. It shows her work at its best and strongest, and at the same time gives the reader an opportunity to acquire a lasting familiarity with the scenes and society of mediæval Italy. It is one of the few really great historical novels of the world. It is issued in handy and beautiful form, extra cloth binding, simple but rare elegance and taste in design and like the other issues of the "Literary Revolution" its cost is almost nominal, viz. 35 cents. It is one of the series intended to form a library of classic fiction, which will include one representative and characteristic work of each of the great authors who have won lasting fame in the realm of fiction. Life is too short and too full of work to permit the reading of all that is beautiful and valuable in these creations of the imagination, but even very busy people can find time to read one book by each of the score of authors who have won immortal fame and place in the affections of the people. Not to be acquainted with them is to be ignorant of much that is most important and most interesting in the history of nations and of men. Not to possess them is to be deprived of the most fruitful and profitable sources of enjoyment. Among those issued or nearly ready are Scott's "Ivanhoe," Bulwer's "Pompeii," Irving's "Knickerbocker," Cooper's "Mohicans," "Tom Brown at Rugby," "Adventures of Don Quixote" and "Uarda, a Romance of Ancient Egypt." Full catalogue of standard publications will be sent on request, by the American Book Exchange, Tribune Building, New York.

Painting a Corpse.

The Baltimore Sun says an investigation in the case of Miss Barbara Leifeld, the young lady who died a few days ago in the western part of that city, and whose corpse was so life-like that some people, seeing a rosy tint on her cheeks and ears, were impressed with a belief that she was in a trance and, as a matter of precaution, was not buried, but deposited in a vault with the coffin lid loose, has revealed a new art, the invention of an undertaker, who, by the use of sulphuric acid and other agents, is enabled to give a temporary bloom to the cheeks of the dead, instead of the customary pallor.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The following statement of William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our readers. He says: "In the fall of 1876 when I was taken with a violent Bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. I was far gone at one time a report went around I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope once dead began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for three years.

"I write this hoping you will publish it so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I have taken two bottles, and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. My cough has almost entirely disappeared and I shall soon be able to go to work. Sold by druggists. Take Wm. Hall's Balsam only—Beware of counterfeits. oct.15-1yeow

Christ's Presence in a Mine.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at a mine in Wales, by which four workers were drowned, and five imprisoned for ten days without light and without food. A more dismal situation could hardly be conceived. The wonder is that any of the number should have been rescued in possession of life and reason. We hear sometimes of insanity as the result of religious excitement, but we do not hear, and perhaps can never know in this world, of many cases in which the great peace and animating hopes that religion only can give, preserve man, in crushing calamity, from sinking into insanity or despair. One of these miners who was rescued stated that he and his companions continued to pray much during their imprisonment. The men were singing a well known Welsh hymn when the tappings of the implements of their liberators were heard. The following is a translation:

In the deep and mighty waters
There was none to hold my head,
But my only Savior, Jesus,
Who was slaughtered in my stead,
He, a friend in Jourdan's river,
Holding up my sinking head,
With his smile I'll go rejoicing
Through the regions of the dead.

The square man mezzures the same each way, and hain't got no winny edges or shaky lumber in him. He iz free from knots and sap and won't wary. He iz clear stuff, and I don't care what you work him up into he won't swell, and he won't shrink. He is amungst men what good kil-dried boards are mong carpenters, he won't season crack. It don't make any difference which side of him you cum to, he is the same bigness each way, and the only way tew get at him, enny how, is to face him. He knows he is square and never spends enny time trying to prove it. The square man is one ov the best shaped men the world has ever produced, he is one ov them kind ov chunks that cant alter to fit a spot, but you must alter the spot to fit him.—[Josh Billings.

A House Full of Spiders.—The queerest companions for a man are those of an old man in New Orleans. He has a mania for spiders and in his rooms are more than 500 of every shape and color. The ceilings are hidden by the webs that the spiders have spun. Occasionally the old man throws a handful of flies into the webs, and is greatly delighted at seeing the spiders seize their struggling victims.

The house which Davy Crocket once lived in at Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is still standing, and divers persons in the neighborhood possess legal documents written out by his own hand as Justice of the Peace. He had a mill near the house, but, it is said, went off hunting and electioneering while his wife took care of the mill. Mrs. Crockett was a woman of great strength, and could handle sacks of grain with ease.

Eighty-Five Dollars Lost.

"You don't tell me your husband is up and about again, and entirely cured by so simple a medicine as Parkers Ginger Tonic? Yes, indeed, I do," said Mrs. Benjamin to her inquiring neighbor, and that too when we had foolishly paid eighty-five dollars in doctor's bills and prescriptions, and after he had been given up by his physicians to die. Now my husband feels as well as ever, entirely cured by this excellent Tonic." And many a sick man might be well in a week if they would only try it.

Mr. Cox met Judge Kelly and said: 'Well, you are elected judge, and probably will be for life.'

'I told my people,' replied the judge, 'I was a candidate for life, barring lunacy or paralysis.'

'Your exception was too broad,' said Cox; lunacy is no disqualification for a seat in Congress.'

We have often heard the remark made that a certain individual was so homely that his face would 'stop a clock.' That is bad for the clock, but when Dr. Browning's C. & C. Cordial will stop a cold or cough, that is good for the person that is troubled with the cold. There is not the least doubt of this happy result, if directions are carefully followed. One teaspoonful every three hours is all that is necessary. It is pleasant to the taste, and children will easily be induced to take it. Give it a trial. 50 cents is the price. Washington swords are quoted or valued at $10,000 apiece, at least that is the price set by Senator Whyte, of Maryland, in a resolution offered in the Senate which proposes to purchase one from Washington's newphew Lewis for exhibition at the Yorktown Centennial. The State Library at Albany has two of Washington's swords which cost the State $20,000.

Locomotives are used in France on canal towpaths. They weigh less than five tons, are easily managed by one man, and draw loaded boats at a more rapid speed than the pace of a horse. Empty boats are drawn at the rate of six miles an hour. A greater speed would damage the canal boats, and is prohibited.

They will never get to the North pole until it is announced that the government will establish it into a new and independent congressional district. Then look out for a rush. There are men in the State of Ohio who will walk to it.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Mamma—"Why, my dear Willie, what in the world is the matter with little Oscar's head?" Willie—"Well, we're playing William Tell, an' somehow my arrow won't hit the apple, but keeps plugging his eyes and nose."

A man in Georgia has become impressed with the idea that air is pure one hundred feet above the ground, and is going to run a pipe up a church steeple and pump the air into his house.

A young fellow being asked how it happened that his sweetheart had given him the mitten, replied: "I was such a fool that I praised her so much that she got so proud she wouldn't speak to me."

Mr. Brassey, famous in England as a yacht man, and a large contractor and operator in various ways, has recently bought two more tracts of land of 60,000 acres each near the base of the Rocky mountains.

In the window of a fashionable fruit and vegetable shop in Paris was recently exhibited a bunch of asparagus valued at $60.

A Fight in Congress Years Ago.

The recent set-to in Congress between Sparks and Weaver recalls a scene enacted in the House in 1856 between Lawrence M. Keitt, of South Carolina, and Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania. The question of admitting Kansas under the Lecompton Coustitution was under discussion. Grow was on the side of the House occupied by the Southern members, and objected to Quitman's making any remarks. Keitt said, 'If you are going to object, return to your own side of the house.' Grow replied: 'This is a free hall; every man has a right to be where he pleases.' Keitt then came nearer to Grow and said: 'I want to know what you mean by such an answer as that?' Grow replied, repeatting what he had said before. Keitt seized Grow by the throat, saying: 'I will let you know that you are a d—d black Republican puppy.' Grow knocked his hand, exclaiming: 'I shall occupy such place in this hall as I please, and no negro-driver shall crack his whip over me.' Keitt again grasped Grow by the throat, and again his hand was knocked off and Grow knocked him squarely down. The respective friends of the parties rushed to the fray. Blows fell thick and fast. Washburne, of Illinois, and Potter, of Wisconsin, towered among the combatants. At this critical juncture Covode, of Pennsylvania, seized a spittoon. The objective point was the head of Barksdale, of Mississippi, who was approaching him of the spittoon in a menacing attitude. But Barksdale's wig fell off and Covode lowered his suspended missile. Meanwhile the Sergeant-at-Arms was running here and there like the peewit, exhibiting his mace—without effect. It was near two o'clock in the morning when these 'proceedings' took place.

After spending hundreds of dollars with out relief Day's Kidney Pad cured me, are the words of thousands.

A Journalist's Funny Position.

Once a funny thing occurred behind the scenes that might have been still funnier. It was a wet, cold night, and a writer for one of the papers, with his overcoat on and his pants rolled up over the top of his boots, and an umbrella in his hand, and an old slouch hat on his head, stopped a moment to have a chat with Pauline Markham, who was playing "Stalacta." Markham was waiting below the stage, standing on the trap that was to bounce her into her fairy realm. The writer got to talking to Polly, and they got interested in the chat and before they knew it the trap had begun to go up. Markham noticed it first and cried to the reporter, "For Heavens sake, get off!" But getting off wasn't as easily done as said. The reporter was pretty tall and very clumsy, and thoroughly scared, so he stood lookin' about him like a fool—goin' up, up, all the time. But Markham at last—and just at the same moment, too, gave the fellow a shove and knocked him off the trap. He struck his head against the floor of the stage, and then tumbled down on a coil of ropes. He might have broken his head, or his bones, or his back, but he didn't But it was a mighty close shave, and Markham kept laughing to herself all the evening, thinking how the audience would have roared to have seen that long, slab sided fellow, with his dirty wet boots, and his rolled-up breeches, and his slouch hat, and his old cotton umbrella, coming up out of cloud land along side of her, in all her silks and satins and spangles, as the queen of the fairies.—Sunday Call.

Living in three States.

A correspondent furnishes the following to the Rennett Advance.

I noticed in the last issue of your paper of the 11th inst., an item headed "Men who live in two and three counties." Sir, I have had the pleasure of being in each of these houses you named in that item, the latter being on the corner of Chester, Lancaster and Berks counties, and is not far distant from the Conestoga pike, and near the farm of Mr. Mart, I believe Jacob Mart. Now Sir, that or those places are a long distance from Bennett Square. Suppose I name a point much nearer than those to you, although you may not be acquainted with the place or places, and in this instance it is not only confined to counties, but also to states as well, or to neither township, district hundred, county or state. They are those farms covering the corners of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. By going about a mile or two south of Strickersville, in London Britain township, you will come to those points. I have sat at the table in the kitchen of a house and ate my dinner in Pennsylvania, while the persons opposite the table to me were eating their dinner in Maryland; the going out of the door on one side found myself in no State at all, but going a little further found myself in Delaware. So here was a house in Chester county and in Cecil county, as well as in Pennsylvania and Maryland, and a few steps further in no state, and the next farm to it, in New Castle county, Delaware. To explain how some of the farms in that section are in no state, I cannot take up the room of your valuable paper so to do. So for can do as you please about that explanation.

Prejudice Kills.

'Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her disease various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had pooh-ed at for two years, before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters.'—The Parents.—Telegram.

Had Been Out of the United States.

'When I was abroad,' remarked McSquint, 'I—'

'You what,' exclaimed Rob, 'when you were abroad? Why, hang it, have known you all of your life, and to my certain knowledge you have never been out of Arkansas. I wouldn't bet that you were ever fifty miles from Little Rock.'

'You will please excuse me,' continued McSquint, 'but I'll bet you twenty five dollars that I went out of the United States some time ago.'

'I'll take you. Put up.'

The money was given to a stakeholder.

'Now,' said Rob, can you prove your assertion?'

'I said that I had been out of the United States, didn't I?'

'Yes.'

'Well, I have.'

'When?'

'In 1861, when Arkansas went out of the Union.'

The bet was decided in McSquint's favor.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM.
OF LYNN, MASS.

DISCOVERER OF
LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.
The Positive Cure
For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected. Let thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.

It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

In fact, it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new blood and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach.

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the Law that governs the female system.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

THE WORLD FOR 1881

The World for 1881 will be the best and cheapest newspapers published in the English tongue on either side of the Atlantic.

With new presses surpassing any ever before manufactured even by Hoe & Co.; with new and unequaled typographical and business facilities of all sorts, and with a better organized telegraphic correspondence throughout the world than that of any other American journal, The World for 1881 will afford its readers daily a complete, condense and trustworthy record of all current events.

In its five minutes with the news of the Day The World meets and keeps pace with the increasing demands made by rapid transit, the telegraph and telephone with the time and attention of business men.

Its daily cable letters from London bring the Old World to the breakfast table of the New.

In its Wall Street Gossip and its items for investors, taken together with its accurate, candid and absolutely impartial financial articles, The World daily represents an unrivaled picture not only of the true condition of the multitudinous enterprises in which the adventurous and active people of this country invest their savings, but also of all the fluctuating influences exerted upon those enterprises by the speculations and the speculators of the Stock Exchanges.

No man who owns or expects to own an interest in any corporate property can afford to miss for a single day the information daily and exclusively given in The World, not only as to the unusual and legitimate course of affairs affecting stock values, but a so as to the plans schemes and combinations which are incessantly making and unmaking in and out of Wall Street to affect those values.

The World also contains every day the freshest, fullest and most instructive notices of everything new and later afloat in the realms of art, of literature and of social life.

It is the accredited organ of the colleges of the Union, and the accuracy and vivacity of its sporting columns covering all the various forms of athletic amusement which have multiplied among us of late years, commend it to the rising generation throughout the country.

As the only metropolitan journal published in the English language which maintains an unswerving fidelity to the great enduring principles of the Democratic faith in politics, The World for 1881 will be found, absolutely loyal to Democratic principles; absolutely independent of persons, cliques and factions within the Democratic party.

The World will maintain the cause of the Union against sectionalism in all its forms, and the cause of the people against monopoly in all its forms.

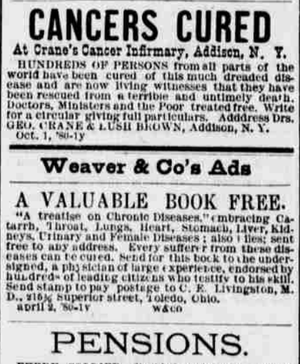
THE WHITE SEWING MACHINE



Whereas, the world renowned reputation of the White Sewing Machine
induces many unscrupulous competitors to resort to all kinds of mean tricks to injure its reputation, we beg to caution all intending purchasers not to buy a except from its regular authorized dealers, who will be sustained by the following warranty.
WHITE MACHINE
WE WARRANT THE NATURAL WEAR AND TEAR OF THE White Shuttle Sewing Machine,
PLATE NUMBER 103339 FOR FAMILY PURPOSES, AND HEREBY AGREE TO KEEP THE SAME IN REPAIR FOR THE TERM OF FIVE YEARS FROM THIS DATE, FREE OF CHARGE.
This warranty excepts the breakage of needles bobbins and shuttles.
This warranty will not be sustained unless the plate number above given corresponds with the number on the shuttle race slide. Beware of defaced or altered numbers.
